

Openly gay comic,
Jason Stuart is making it to the middle and beyond!

A few months back I was in my local video rental store and happened to see 10 Attitudes on the shelf and I wondered to myself what Jason Stuart the writer and star of it was up to. What was he up to? Had he gotten anywhere? As it turns out he's done a lot before and since that quirky movie.

First stop was his site and next up was to see if he had a MySpace page (MySpace is a great place for finding gay actors and comedians btw.); or maybe it was the other way around?

In any event, I was pleased for several reasons to see that Jason had indeed been keeping busy, very busy indeed. He may not have skyrocketed to stardom but this openly gay comic has been working on a lot of projects.

In fact, in the last six months Jason has completed seven films and five TV shows and that's in between his stand up gigs which include the "The Looking for Mr. Right Comedy Tour".

In a recent bulletin, Jason announced that he's set to appear in his first stand up comedy special "Jason Stuart: Making To The Middle", which will be airing on here! TV.

The Special was filmed in the middle in the country, the middle of his career and the middle of his life.

On the film side of things Jason Stuart is finally getting some big recognition. Stuart was recently nominated for a Gay International Film Award (Glitter Award), for best supporting actor in "Coffee Date" as Todd's nosy officemate. I've noted recently that Coffee Date is due to come out in September and I'm looking forward to watching it.

Jason was recently cast in "Doesn't Texas Ever End?" playing a straight guy of all things, and the coming of age drama "American Primitive" playing "Randolph" the other half of a gay couple circa 1973. Stuart has also completed the lead dog voice "Mozart" in the film "A Dog Life".

He's playing a "Doctor" in the comedy "Pong Pong Playa", from Oscar winning filmmaker Jessica Yu; a "Priest" who's murdered in the drama "Twisted Faith" opposite Elaine Hendrix ("Bam Bam & Celeste").

Jason is also playing a "Rich Man", whose lover steals $98,000 in "San Saba" opposite Angus McFadden ("Braveheart") w/ Vivica Fox: a "Dad" in the mini film "Angels with Dirty Spaces". And lastly, he plays a "Rude Manager" in the murder mystery "Seducing Spirits" and he just might be the killer?

On the television front, Jason is set to be a flamboyant auctioneer on "Everybody Hates Chris" and was recently seen on "George Lopez", "Mind of Mencia", and was a celebrity panelist "Comics Unleashed" with host Byron Allen.

He has appeared on both American gay networks, doing stand up on LOGO in "Wiscrack", and in the "D.L. Chronicles" on Here! TV.

In short, Jason Stuart has been in over 70 films and TV shows so far and it doesn't look like he's going to be short of work any time soon as this is just a short list of what Jason is up to.

As Jason notes, "the doors are opening for gay men to live their life and be a successful character actor at the same time. The new second banana is a gay man!"
