

June 10, 2011
Next Magazine

Out comic JASON STUART has been slaying audiences nationwide for since the early '90s. He's also racked up an impression television reel, with guest parts on Will & Grace, the Closer, House, It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia, Entourage and other hot properties.

What would be his dream role? "I would love to be in Iron Man 3 and play a villain who shoots as proficient as my straight counterpoints but who really does not like killing people," says the Bronx native. "He'll say thing like 'I will shoot one more person and that's it. Don't push me!'"

Catch Stuart tonight when he joins Brad Loekle, Jason Stuart, Harmonica Sunbeam, Emma Willmann and other hilarious homos at Bob Montgomery's Homo Comicus at Gotham Comedy Club.

Superhero costume not included!